INDUSTRIES, INC.

Revolutionizes the way school photographers service their schools.

Imageflo is a turn-key package that includes front-end web access and a back-end software package combined with an image sharing web server. Schools with yearbook deadlines want quick turn-around... how fast can they access your professional images from the time you cover the assignment? Is it several days or even a week later? You can have professional processed images available to your yearbook staffs within a few hours or even minutes after the event.

With the advent of digital photography, most school photographers realized the benefits of providing digital service photos to yearbook accounts. The savings of not printing thousands of service prints for the yearbook is substantial. Many school photographers are providing these images on CD, but a lot (if not all) of the savings is offset by the added cost of buying new digital cameras and the physical delivery of the photo CDs. Whether the images are professional or student produced, there remains the expense of delivery and time. It doesn't matter if it's UPS, Mail, or one of your valuable employees, it's costing you money. Ask us for a cost analysis based on our own experience and you be the judge of the savings. The competitive advantages will speak for themselves!

We can also make sure your images are protected with hardware and software firewall protection to defeat hackers... those yearbook images are valuable and you must protect them.
